

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

NOTE

THE first number of the AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVIEW appeared in October, 1895, and the journal has been issued quarterly since then. Each of the first ten volumes has its own index. The present general index has not been made by consolidating these, but has been constructed de novo. Its main purpose is to present an analysis of the articles and documents contained in these first ten volumes of the REVIEW. The names of contributors are entered in small capitals; the titles of the articles in italics under the names of the writers. If the contribution is an introduction to a document it is preceded by (Introd. to Doc.); if a bibliography, by (Bibl.). In the topical titles of the index a comprehensive reference (usually to a whole article) is followed by entries giving the analysis or else by a word in brackets indicating the heading under which the particular topic is analyzed; but this cross reference is not used when the heading under which the analysis can be found is obvious from the wording of the entry. The cross references at the end of titles indicate a more general connection. If the topic is a document or a bibliography the entry is followed by (doc.) or (bibl.).

Reviews are entered under the reviewer, author, editor, translator, and writer of an introduction. The name of a reviewer is entered in small capitals, and (R) precedes the title of the work reviewed. In other cases the word "reviewed" is used. Subordinate connection with a book reviewed is indicated by (ed.), (trans.), or (introd.). The title of a book reviewed is placed in quotation marks; but only such portion of the title is given as is necessary to identify the work, and a biography is entered under the heading of the subject by means of the word "by" or "biog. by". The index is not a complete subject catalogue of the reviews. They are entered under the subjects when these are distinct and limited, or else uncommon, and the delimiting facts are shown by the titles of the books. This plan calls for the subject entry of biographies, books on special periods, such as the Restoration or the reign of one monarch, and books on such fields as the Philippines; in general, the attempt has been made to give a subject catalogue of such books as are not usually searched for under the names of the authors. The compiler recognizes the inconvenience of this personal selection; but with the limited space at his disposal it has not been possible to do justice to all the departments of the REVIEW, and the reviews have been entered fully by title in the separate indexes.

The obituary notices are the only items in the department of Notes and News which find a place in the index.

Abbreviations have been freely used; all of them are thought to be self-explanatory. A colon after the initial of a given name denotes the most common English name or its foreign equivalent, after the system used by the American Library Association. These are as follows: A:—Augustus; B:—Benjamin; C:—Charles (Carl, Carlos); D:—David; E:—Edward; F:—Frederick; G:—George; H:—Henry (Heinrich); I:—Isaac; J:—John (Jean, Juan, Johann, Giovanni); L:—Louis (Lewis, Ludwig, Luis); N:—Nicholas; P:—Peter (Pierre, Pedro, Pietro); R:—Richard; S:—Samuel; T:—Thomas; W:—William (Wilhelm, Guillaume).

In the analysis, if the topic begins on one page and extends to the next the reference is to the first page only unless the topic is continued on the second page in a new paragraph; when the topic extends over more than two pages, the reference is to the first and last page. The reference to articles entered under the name of the contributor is to the first and last pages, but reviews are entered as of the first page only.

In the arrangement of headings Cutter, Rules for a Dictionary Catalog (ed. of 1904), has been followed, except that the names of monarchs have been given in their English equivalents. Attention is especially called to the fact that a foreign personal name beginning with a prefix (unless in a French or Belgian name that contains an article, as le, la, l', du, des; or unless the prefix has been made a part of the main name, as in Decaen) is given under the part that follows the prefix; that a foreign compound surname is usually entered under the first part, and an English name under the last; and that forts, jakes, capes, etc., are to be found under the main words. For mediæval personal names search should be made under the prephenon as well as under that which at some later time became the surname. Nobles are entered under the hereditary title.
